UMass interim head coach Alex Miller had an All-American career for the Minutemen as a center then spent more than a decade as an offensive line coach. “Being a center and being an offensive line coach, you’re usually bearing the responsibility of other people as well,” Miller said. “So you’re kind of built for that game.”

with the program, has worked with Miller as closely as anyone this season.

“He’s a great leader,” Longman said. “He played here, loves the University of Massachusetts. Being an O-line coach, he coaches a lot of guys already, coaching that many guys in his position group makes the transition probably the easiest.”

UMass will face Maine at noon Saturday at McGuirk Alumni Stadium for Senior Day before closing the season with two road games.

“This is my family,” Miller said. “And I’m going to do whatever it takes to make this family strong and do right by these kids the next couple weeks.”

LET’S GET COORDINATED – In addition to being UMass’ head coach, Walt Bell was also the Minutemen’s offensive coordinator. That means the Minutemen need to fill in for both coordinators this week.

No single person will take over either job. It’ll be a collaborative effort from the offensive and defensive staffs.

Linebackers coach Dan Carrel, in his first season in the role, will call the defense from the press box. Interim defensive tackles coach Jim Reid, a former UMass head coach and defensive coordinator, will aid in short yardage planning, and defensive backs coach Jason Tudryn (a Northampton and UMass grad) will have an eye on the passing game.

“They’re splitting up the duties and making sure those guys are ready to roll over there,” Miller said.

On offense, quarterbacks coach Frederick Walker and tight ends coach Kyle Segler have stepped up. Walker will be in the press box, while Segler will patrol the sidelines.

“Planning wise we’re still working as a staff to make sure we’re on the same page and to get these guys going in the right direction,” Miller said.

QB1? – UMass quarterback Tyler Lytle started his first game since the season opener Saturday against Rhode Island. He missed the previous seven games with a wrist injury sustained against the Panthers.

Miller wouldn’t fully commit to Lytle remaining the starter Saturday against Maine.

“We’re going to see how Tyler feels throughout the week and go from there,” he said. “Obviously the good news/bad news is (true freshman) Brady (Olson) does have some experience. If he has to play, it’s not going to be too earth shattering, but we’re gonna let that play out through practice and make a decision Saturday.”

Olson has completed 48.39 percent of his passes while throwing for 1,032 yards to go along with seven touchdowns and seven interceptions. He’s averaged 147.43 yards per game.

In his two starts, Lytle averaged 197 yards through the air while throwing one touchdown and one interception. The Colorado transfer has also ran for two scores.

pens, but it’s happening to everybody.”

The Browns have avoided similar widespread problems this season. However, the positive tests for Chubb and Felton came a day after running back John Kelly and practice squad wide receiver Lawrence Cager were put on COVID-19 lists.

With Kareem Hunt on injured reserve and out indefinitely with a calf injury, the Browns currently have just one healthy running back — D’Ernest Johnson — and may have to sign players for depth.

Chubb rushed for 137 yards and scored two touchdowns in Sunday’s win. One of the scores came on a 70-yard run on which Chubb was clocked at 21.1 mph.

The 25-year-old has 721 yards and six touchdowns this season despite missing two games with a calf injury.
